The Office of Naval Intelligence furnished the following information to CIA for IAC dissemination in accordance with paragraph 3c of NSCIN #7. This information was obtained by WIO-3ND and was forwarded as ONI report 186-S-53.

1. New Construction on Hel Peninsula: Extensive construction activity is in progress on the sheltered, or western side, of the Hel Peninsula. A large marine basin is being built in this area, including breakwaters, cranes, and docks.
2. Breakwater at Entrance to Kanal Portowy: The northern half of the breakwater at the entrance to Kanal Portowy is presently being demolished.

Source states that behind this breakwater is a navy recreation area and that the buildings seen in (2) are barracks and recreation halls.

the south breakwater at the entrance to Kanal Portowy; the ship is a Polish schooner of unknown name and type.

- 3.
4. Source stated that he heard rumors, from a person whom he considered reliable, to the effect that large stores of steel (structural bars and pipe) appear from time to time at Gdynia. This steel is allowed to accumulate for a time and then suddenly disappears, supposedly into the USSR.
